Annapolis Gazette.

ANNAPOLIS
THURSDAY, APRIL 23.

When intelligence of the lamented death of Mr. Murray was received by the steam-boat yesterday, the court of Anne-Arundel county, which was in session at the time, adjourned; and at a meeting of the Bench and Bar, and Officers of the Court, which was held immediately afterwards, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved—unanimously, That the members of this meeting are penetrated with emotions of the most heartfelt sorrow for the afflicting dispensation of Providence, which has cut off in the full career of honour and usefulness, their much beloved friend, the late HENRY M. MURRAY.

Resolved unanimously, That—as a faint tribute of our affection to the deceased, we will wear crape on the left arm for the space of thirty days.

Waverly, April 27th, 1824.

Sir, Observing myself announced as a candidate for a seat in the next Congress of the United States, I beg leave to inform my friends, and the voters of the district, that I do not wish to be considered a candidate for that or any other public situation. To those friends who have brought my name into view, and to the voters who intended to support my election, I tender my sincere thanks for their good wishes towards me.

By giving this an insertion in your paper you will much oblige,

Your obedient servant,

GEORGE HOWARD.

To Jonas Green Esq. Editor Mary-land Gazette.

ASSEMBLY CANDIDATE.

We are authorised to state, that GEORGE HOWARD, of Prince George's county is a candidate to represent Anne-Arundel county in the next legislature of Maryland.

We are authorised to state that Mr. John W. Duval, declines being considered a candidate for the Sheriffly at the ensuing election, in Anne Arundel county.

MR. CRAWFORD.

We have received an anonymous communication from a correspondent at Bryan-town, in Charles county, relative to a trial of the strength of the respective presidential candidates, at an accidental meeting in that town of a number of the inhabitants of the adjacent country. The trial shewed Mr. Crawford to be decidedly the most popular candidate with the meeting. It would afford us pleasure to insert the entire communication, but inasmuch as two very respectable gentlemen are named in it, we have concluded to postpone its publication till the author transmits us his name. This he can have no objection to do, as there is nothing offensive in his piece.

PHILADELPHIA.

The deaths in Philadelphia last week amounted to eighty—of which seven were by natural small-pox.

For the Md. Gazette.

CRAWFORD &amp; EDWARDS.

The hon. Ninian Edwards, who has lately been appointed minister to Mexico, and who was formerly a Senator in Congress from Illinois; has presented a memorial to congress, containing the following charges against Mr. Secretary Crawford. The memorial has been referred by the House of Representatives to a committee of seven members, viz. Messrs. Floyd, Randolph, Webster, Livingston, McArthur, Taylor, and Owen, and a writ issued by authority of the House, to compel Mr. Edwards to appear before the committee. The attempt thus to injure Mr. Crawford, is too shallow to meet with success. The American people are too generous and enlightened to be gulled by it; and the first inquiry which every honest man makes when the subject is mentioned, is, Why did not Edwards make those charges while he was a member of congress, and before he was on the eve of departing for a foreign country? He knew that by absenting himself from the country he would prevent a complete investigation into the conduct of Mr. Crawford, and that until such investigation is had, and the falsity of the charges shewn, the ill-famous character of the accused, and prevent many, who have not yet made up their mind which of the presidential candidates to support, uniting with the friends of Mr. Crawford. The trick however will not answer Mr. Crawford's supporters in congress have acted promptly, and Mr. Edwards must stand and establish his charges, or endure the scorn which a failure to do so will bring upon him.

THE CHARGES.

1st, That the Hon. Wm. H. Crawford, Secretary of the Treasury, has mismanaged the National Fund.

2d, That he has received large amounts of unaccounted notes from certain banks, in part discharge of their debts to the United States contrary to the resolution of Congress of 1816.

3d, That, being called on by a resolution of the House of Representatives, to state the amount of uncurrent notes which he received from those banks, he has misstated it, by making it less than it really was.

4th, That he has, in his report to the House, misrepresented the obligations of those banks, or some one of them, at least, and predicated thereon an indefensible excuse for his conduct, in receiving those current notes.

5th, That he has acted illegally, in a variety of instances, by making, and continuing, deposits of public money, in certain local banks, without making report thereof to Congress, according to law.

6th, That he has in several instances, withheld information and letters, called for by the House, and which it was his duty to have communicated.

After preferring the above tremendous charges against Mr. Crawford, Mr. Edwards says, "I will not charge him with bad intentions in any of these acts." Having given the pith of Mr. Edwards's charges, it will be only an act of justice to the accused to shew what is said in the Washington City Gazette of them. If the paragraphs here copied from the City Gazette be correct, those charges are not the work of Mr. Edwards alone, but are the joint production of a combination of men, who, considering the high and responsible stations which they occupy, can find no time to spend in plotting and intriguing to weaken the deserved popularity of Mr. Crawford, without a neglect of their public duties.

Mr. Edwards, it is said, has pushed off for New-Orleans, there to await the arrival of a national vessel to take him to Mexico. It is therefore probable that it will be necessary for the officer appointed to serve the writ which has been issued for him to follow him to that city.

Extracts from the Washington City Gazette.

"It won't do."

The stratagem resorted to by the Secretary of War, in conjunction with his friend Mr. Ninian Edwards, won't do. The people see through the artifice. Mr. Calhoun has long been remarkable for springing mines against the Secretary of the Treasury but we think he has sprung one now, that will blow up Mr. Monroe and himself too. The people are impatient for the President's explanation respecting the facts stated in Mr. Lowrie's last communication. It is "due time" they had it.

THE BEST OF THE BARGAIN.

Mr. Ninian Edwards has certainly got the best of the bargain in the "A. B. plot." He has secured 18,000 dollars for his THREE TOLD TALE. Having written his book here, away he posts westward, and sends it back for the benefit of the concern, who may get out of the scrape as well as they can. He asks the House of Representatives to proceed against Crawford, but not to form any opinion of himself till he comes back again; when, being a very "independent" gentleman, he will be ready to receive $18,000 more out of the public treasury. The concern here must bear the first brunt of public indignation, and Mr. Edwards gets all the money.

FINE EMPLOYMENT FOR CONGRESS.

THREE TIMES has Mr. Ninian Edwards occupied the attention of one branch of Congress with vague and indefinite accusations against the Secretary of the Treasury.—Twice has the House of Representatives pronounced them FALSE. Whilst national business of importance presses, the House is again engaged in the same business. How is it that an individual, moving leisurely off with 18,000 dollars of the people's money in his pocket, can thus trifle with the Legislative body? The issue is neither feared nor doubted. But why did not Mr. Edwards, when a member of the Senate, stand forward in his place, and, like a man, boldly impeach Mr. Crawford? The people's eyes are opened, and they see the finger of President Monroe in all this business.

An allusion to certain publications signed 'A. B.' of which Mr. Edwards has avowed himself the author, and which were designed to injure the public character of Mr. Crawford.

The following is the Report of the Secretary of the Treasury which produced the communication of Mr. Edwards, addressed to the House of Representatives.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,

March 22, 1824.

In further compliance with a resolution of the House of Representatives of the 8th of May, 1823, the Secretary of the Treasury has now the honour to transmit copies of all the official correspondence between the Secretary and the banks in which the public monies were deposited, from the first of January, 1817, to the 8th of May, 1823, that may be considered as included, either directly or indirectly, in the terms of the resolution, and that has not been heretofore communicated to the House.

The Hon. Mr. Edwards, late a Senator from Illinois, having stated, on his examination before a Committee of the House, on the 13th of February, 1823, that the late Receiver of public monies at Edwardsville had, on his advice, and in his presence, written a letter to the Secretary, enclosing a copy of a publication which Mr. Edwards represented himself to have made sometime in the year 1819, announcing his intention of retiring from the directorship of the Bank of Edwardsville; and that he had advised the Receiver to withhold his deposits from the bank, until he could receive further orders from the Secretary; and that the Receiver afterwards informed him that he had received a letter from the Secretary directing him to continue the deposits; the Secretary deems it proper to state, that no such letter from the Receiver is to be found on the files of the Department; that the officers employed in it have no recollection of the receipt of such a letter; and that, on an examination of the records of the Department, it appears that no answer to any such letter directing the Receiver to continue the deposits, was ever written to him by the Secretary of the Treasury.

The Hon. the SPEAKER

Of the House of Representatives.

From the Baltimore Chronicle.

Some of the members of the House of Representatives have made very severe strictures on the appointment of Mr. Edwards as minister to Mexico.—They have intimated that this was done by the President from motives of hostility to Mr. Crawford. It is unnecessary to mention, we presume, that the Mexican minister has professed to the House of Representatives some severe charges against the Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. Floyd remarked that:—"The A. B. conspirator, however, ought not again to have attempted to consummate the object of his wishes, after he had, in such a sort, succeeded in obtaining the appointment of minister of Mexico, and the President's confidence. He had obtained the reward of so much toil, so much industry and so many dangers, and he ought to have left behind him the honest reputation to which he had attained, as it no longer proved a barrier to his march to the Mission to Mexico, and the President's favour."

Mr. Forsyth thus flings his squibs in the face of the Executive:

"Whether the house ordered the statement to be printed or not, it would, doubtless, be circulated in the public newspapers, and he had no doubt it was prepared for that purpose. It was intended, he presumed, as a sort of legacy to the country, by the author, who was going as Minister to Mexico, as a mark of his gratitude for the honour of his appointment."

It was supposed that the Mexican Minister intended to prefer his charges, said directly upon his mission to Mexico, and thus avoid all responsibility, and the President was addressed by a committee of the House, to procrastinate his departure. In answer to this attack let the reader peruse the following sentence, from the grave reply of our first magistrate:

"As soon as I was apprized that such a communication had been made to the house, anticipating that the attendance of Mr. Edwards might be desired, for the purpose stated, I thought it proper that he should be informed thereof, and instructed not to proceed on his mission, but to await such call as might be made on him, either by the House or its committees, and in consequence, a letter was addressed to him to that effect, by the Secretary of State."

From the Baltimore American.

The course which popular opinion is taking at last, but confirms me in the opinion, that the people though they may be led astray for awhile, sooner or later always discover their error, and once discovered it is promptly corrected: for as has been frequently and justly said, the people sometimes err in judgment but never in intention. Any boy who wishes to have the fun of pulling the engine about, or any artful villain who longs for a good opportunity to pick others' pockets and fill his own, has only to raise the cry of "fire," and our good citizens will run from one end of the town to the other in search of it. When they find however, that it is a false alarm, they never persist in crying "fire!" "fire!" I have known too, a man ride into the Legislature upon "Caucus," "Caucus," serve out the session and never be sent again, and why? Because the people who were led astray by the cry of "Caucus," "Caucus," find it was a false alarm—a ruse de guerre—a mere trick of the trade.

The friends of all the candidates for the Presidency, except ours, gave the alarm at least eighteen months ago. This was ill-judged indeed. They have kept up the cry loud and long.—They've raced the people here there and every where.—They'd never do to breathe them—they'd discover the trick—so when they had raced them to one point and found no fire there—they raise the cry in another quarter and very dexterously draw them off in that direction.—Thus they have run from point to point till they have fairly tired them out. They can run no longer, and find at the end of this dance they've been led, that there was no fire and never was any from the beginning.—Adieu comes too late now. But I would have advised these political alarmists, not to have cried out so soon. It was too long to have expected to keep up the delusion.—I know they'll say, "why if we had't begun at once Mr. Crawford's friends would have got the start of us."—This was a capital error. They might have deferred it without any danger from Mr. Crawford's friends on the score of their getting the start of them by commencing the system of pulling their own candidate and derailing all the rest; and this winning the people to him.—Mr. C's friends would have had recourse to no such artifice—they knew that his character, his public acts, and political principles spoke much louder, in his favour than any newspaper eulogium; and were willing to submit him and his pretensions silently to the people. What a pity his enemies hadn't known that he didn't intend to scuffle with them for newspaper praise! They might have kept back until a short time before the election, and then have raised their deceptive cry and perhaps have been able to keep up the delusion until their scheme was consummated.—But alas! alas! like the lying shepherd, nobody listens to them now—they've cried "wolves," "wolves," too long. The people see they have been imposed on and the enemies of Mr. Crawford are all agast! MADISON.

LT. KENNON'S CASE.

The following resolution has been adopted by the House of Representatives of the U. States:

Resolved, That the President be requested to cause to be laid before this House the proceedings of a court martial lately held at Norfolk, for the trial of Lieut. Beverly Kennon, of the United States Navy.

LT. WEAVER.

The National Intelligencer states, that Lieut. W. A. Weaver has been suspended by order of the Navy Department, in consequence of the questions which have arisen as to the correctness of his conduct, in the case between himself and the owners of the ship America; and that a formal investigation will be instituted on the return of the Franklin to the United States.

GRAND PARADE.

At a military muster lately in Georgia, a captain, two lieutenants, and one private composed the company!

PAY OF CONGRESS.

It is estimated that if congress shall remain in session till the 15th May, (the day on which it has agreed to adjourn) the pay of its members alone, will amount to upwards of four hundred thousand dollars!

By the arrival at Havana of the American brig Columbia, in 14 days from Alvarado, information had been received of the recommencement of hostilities between the town of Vera Cruz and the Castle of St. John de Ulua.

SUMMARY OF ITEMS

In a London paper of the 12th ult. received at Boston.

THE WAVERLY NOVELS.

Sir Walter Scott has at length in effect acknowledged himself to be the author of the Waverly Novels. So much for Greenfieldism.

THE GREEKS.

Letters from the Archipelago state that the Greeks had again made a landing twenty leagues to the North of Smyrna, and other parts of the coast, and levied large contributions.

Information was received by way of Trieste from Missolonghi to February 6, at which date it was stated the Greek army had been divided into battalions according to the English custom, and was undergoing the discipline of European troops. Many of the chieftains were assembled at Missolonghi, and instructions had been given for introducing the modern tactics into every part of the service. The utmost harmony prevailed, and a plan was digested for the operations of the next campaign. The presence of Lord Byron had instilled unanimity in their councils, and he had, by universal acclamation been declared a citizen of Greece.

ENGLAND &amp; ALGIERS.

Despatches were received at the British Admiralty, from Sir Harry Neale, dated 25th of February, off Algiers, where the Admiral was keeping up a strict blockade. Although it was evident the Dey had not made the full concession required of him, yet it was said, that on the appearance of the British Admiral, he had directed some European captives to be placed on the footing of prisoners of war, although till that time, they had been treated as slaves. Two Algerine frigates were seen near Cadiz, Feb. 19, and three or four days afterwards two British frigates sailed in that direction from Lisbon, which it was hoped might fall in with the Algerines.

ALGIERS &amp; THE NETHERLANDS

A Paris paper of March 6, contains the following paragraph.—The squadron of His Majesty the King of the Netherlands, which was in the ports of the Balearic Islands; under the command of Admiral Ruysch, has sailed to make war with the Algerines, in conformity with the treaty of Alcala, because that Regency has sent ships of war, and a great number of corsairs, to the coast of Spain, for the purpose of capturing all Spanish vessels that they may meet with. It is known that before the 12th of last month, four Spanish vessels had been carried into the port of Algiers.

SPAIN.

The King of Spain has declined the mediation of England between him and his late American provinces, and announced his determination to use every effort to recover them, beginning with Mexico.

DEATHS.

Died in Scotland, Feb. 11, the venerable Highlander, Patrick Grant, to whom a pension was granted a week was two years ago, and by the king, in the 111th year of his age. It is thought that he was the last survivor of those who fought at the battles of Culloden and Falkirk. He expired while sitting in his elbow chair, having felt scarcely any previous illness. His pension devolves on his daughter.

The Earl of Clarendon died on the 7th of March.

The Duke of Cambaceres, died on the 9th of March at Paris.

OBITUARY.

Died, in Baltimore, yesterday morning at half past 5 o'clock, sincerely regretted, HENRY M. MURRAY, esquire, a distinguished member of the bar. He was a native of this city, and at the period of his dissolution was in the zenith of manhood. His death was occasioned by injury received by the bursting of the boiler of the steam-boat Eagle on the 18th inst. while on her passage from this place to Baltimore.

In this city, on Wednesday the 21st inst. after a long illness, Mr. JOHN SMITH, at an advanced age.
